Nazi Pressure on Russia to Allow Transit of Troops and Materials

Special to the "Telegraph"

ANKARA, June 9 (UP).-Best informed diplomatic sources stated to-day that a large-scale movement of German troops was in progress northwards from the south Balkans. They declared that the Germans were now concentrating huge forces in Moldavia for the purpose of applying pressure to Russia to allow German troops to cross by land and sea from Contanza to Baku, from where they would travel to Iran by train and truck, scizing British oil supplies, and invading Iraq thus outflanking Syria.

Diplomatic sources considered that it was certain the Germans would resume their pressure on Turkey to allow the passage of at least war materials to Syria, but it is not believed that the Nazis will push the issue as far as a conflict.

It is stated that British reconnaissance has ascertained the concentration of several hundred German planes at Rhodes, where a large number of troops is ready for air transport to Syria.

Pilot Really

-As told to Captain FRANK SHAW

SUPPOSE I'm an average pilot, so my feelings in action may stand for the feelings of all my battling comrades.

In the first place, not much fear enters into a man's thoughts when he's hurling himself at four hundred miles an hour into what the scribes call The Jaws of Hell.

Your feelings are chained tight. You are one with your killer-machine.

Every extraneous thought is clean wiped from yourbrain.

Your goal is a hundred miles: twenty minutes, or, with a following wind, even less than that; and for twenty minutes—a breath or a lifetime in an airman's existence -you have opportunity to test your armour; to try a few quick tricks, perhaps, to make sure the ship is as alwaysas ready to your hand, eye and heart, as a blood horse about to start for the Derby.

VOUR ground-crew have seen to details: your guns are serviced and ready; a touch on the button and the answering spatter assures you of that. Everything is smooth as silk underyour hands.

You are subconsciously aware of a sense of unlimited power. You feel on a level with the gods-even superior to them, for you are modern and efficient; not overlaid with the dust and grime of futile

You are a god! But you don't put that into words; the awareness simply flows through you with an odd, electric tingling that again communicates . itself. to your machine, glying it an increased roar of power, a thickened vibration, an eagerness that is like the straining of hounds on a leash.

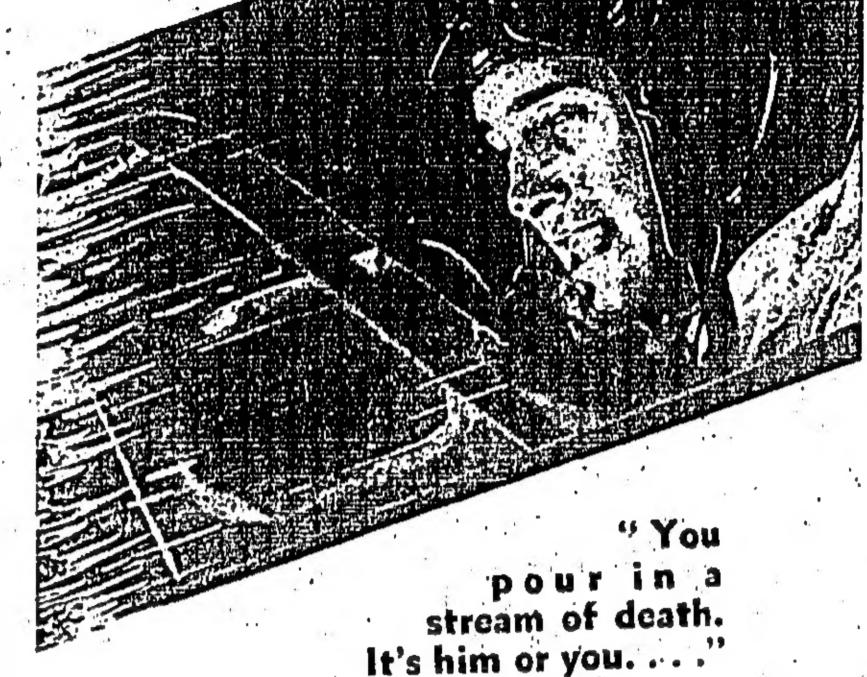

But you don't think-until afterwards the swift impressions registered on your brain are developed, like a sensitised plate.

A IR-LIFE to-day is all unticipation and almost grudging retrospect. There is no present; because the present flows past you at three hundred miles an hour, to become a blurred past before you appreciate its existence.

If you have listened to a broadcast describing enemy savagery and atrocity, you probably start, your patrol with a fury of hatred blaxing inside you; an incoherent determination to square the deal with the murdetous Ilun.

You've heard of mutilated nurses shattered under the symbol of the. once-sacred Red Cross; of old. women butchered as they fled for the ditches of their wrecked villoget....You've seen, with bleary, almost unregistering eyes, the severed limbs yes, and heads of children, littered ghastily among their torn toys.

You, swear that, by God's avonging grace, you will treat any enemy you encounter in precisely that way; mangling him, showing no pity, no hint of mercy. But that is on the ground; these raging emotions are not your companions in the parted air.

All you are conscious of is a strained desire to see what the sky would spout upon you. No hightalutin' heroisms! It is a "job," to be done as efficiently and thoroughly as may be.

It is your work, for which you draw pay, for which painstaking specialists trained you through what seemed then to be tedious $70U fretted then at compara-L tive inaction; now you bless the thoughtful care that insisted on hard efficiency before entrusting you with a fighting Job.

And through the blur of unconscious thought, you see suddenly that here is what you came out to find-death or victory.

Hatred has fled; possibly-I've felt it—there is even a limp sympathy with what you intend shall be your victims-your bag, for the fact that you are wishful to slaughter fellow humans doesn't register in human terms. For all emotion to the contrary, these flickering glints around you might be partridges.

The fight itself is a series of flashes: none definitely registered at the moment, all taking orderly shape as your trained brain clears to accept individual facts.

A man is on your tail-and you spin around to give him the works. You manueuvre without conscious vol(tion, until you see him within' range, your nose bearing fairly; you touch the button and give him the

You follow the steam of death, pouring in another. It is your enemy or you.

A fitting impression-"She'll be sorry if-" then you choke with a red heat as you see you've killed him: a fighter.

He's down; diving like all hell, flaming, smoking—there's a hint of a deathly stink that is as fleeting us No time for thought-below is a clutch of bombers, intent on death. You dive eight thousand feet in a breathless; plummet-sweep. You don't know you're doing it, except for the drumming of air-pressures in your cars. You use oxygen as a something within you, superior to your will, dictates.

You range for attack, and still you're not murderous, only a craftsman.

- You cut a bomber clean in two, watch him down; you get, on to another, destroy him.

The clutch breaks formation, with every indication of panic.

VOU chase—you settle on a big fellow's tall; but it is the instinct of that careful training that directs your synchronised. movements, not your sentient self. Your brains are leed, but they work form: clean, precise, inevitable. more slowly than your actions. You cannot distinguish details-

You see a fighter sleeking along on some devilment and you give the gun, calling to your bus for every inch of extra speed. -

If you see yourself overhauling the quarry you are vaguely glad; if you drop speed you are vaguely disappointed; but not angrily so It's just the luck. Out of all my fights—and there have been plenty-I cannot remember either fear or elation. Not at the moment, that is: I have felt my mouth dry like a limekiln when the hazard's over:

I have felt my heart thrusting like a hammer in my throat; but that was when in security. One impression does stand out curiously and clearly, though, It was the other day, when I saw a German bomber deliberately wreck a hospital ship. The Red Cross was plainly the Heinkel. He could not help having seen it; but his downward dive had all the determined purpose of a man attacking a definitely hostile target. He killed that sacred ship. He machine-gunned nurses and wounded men-some of them Germans—as they made for the boats.

He swooped and machinegunned people—women, too, in the oily water. He was worse than any mad dog-his dastardly assassinations were wholesale.

I felt hate-like a fire. I felt I'd kill him if it meant flying fairly into him and bringing him down in a blind grapple.

I sat on him, cut him in two. He dived in a spiral; and as he dived I gave him another burst to make sure.

Then the Helnkel hit the sen and disapeared, in a scum of oil and debris-a horrible broth of death and torment.

RUBBER boat popped up and clinging to it were two men; the men who had made that holocaust...

A second before I'd been swearing blue murder—that if I got a shot I'd hit them in the stomach so they'd die slowly and agonisedly. The kaleidoscope fluttered.

"Poor devils! They're doing as they're told." But as I spared them I saw retribution overtake the Jerries.

Erect in their rubber boat they floated amongst swimmers, hands · up-Kamerading · hard. · And two swimming sailors—I saw this in a lightning flash of conscious thought -grabbed the boat, capsized it, held the airmen down until their writhings ceased.

But even then I was aware nelther of pity nor satisfaction. This nir-game is bigger than its player.

WARRIOR WOMEN

PUBLIC-sentiment will warmly welcome the generous tribute which Mr Winant, the United States Ambassador, paid recently to the part which the women of Britain are playing in the national war effort. What has impressed him, he testifies, as much as anything since he arrived in England, is that this is a woman's war more than any other in history. It is true. Not only are women engaged in all the active services and in all the industries, but they are, by their indomitable spirit, their uncomplaining fortitude, and their unsparing acceptance of grievous burdens, aiding incalculably to maintain the national morale at the sticking place. Mr Winant has seen the bombed areas, and noted how the mothers and home makers there have faced unmerciful disaster, and shown, not less than their men in the fighting Services, the staying-power of their race.

Women are being confronted with dangers and sacrifices which have never before presented themselves in the same form and in the same degree; and they have risen nobly to the height of the grim emergency. If they had flinched or failed, no valour, however shining, could have availed to hold the front. As the struggle goes on more and more is demanded of the country's women-kind; and whatever is demanded is teing given. Mr Winant bids his own country-women, whom he was directly addressing, to make it their duty to interpret to the women of America the place in the war that is held by the women of Britain, No better service could be rendered or more richly deserved .- L.D.T.

But there are DANGERS that have to be watched during childhood

TARENTS should be happy if their children are the highly-strung. sensitive type, because it is usually these children who go furthest in life.

But the danger with these children is that because they are highlystrung they may live too intensely. They may burn themselves out like lamps with too bright a flame.

Fortunately you can tell very quickly when this is beginning to happen. The child will go off his food, be finicky at meals. He'll get pale, puffy under the eyes-sometimes even lose weight. Ho'll tire easily, get freiful or listless. Every parent should be able to recognise these symptoms and what they mean.

They mean that, the child is using up his energy far more quickly than he is replacing it. And it is at night, during sleep, that these stores of energy should be replaced. If they are not replaced, the nervous strain on the child gets worse and worse. He's suffering from Night Starvation.

At the first sign of any of these symptoms you should act, and act quickly, Give your child Horlicksa hot cupful every night at bedtime. Horlicks will guard, him against Night Starvation by replacing his nervous energy during sleep.

Almost at once your child's appetite will improve. He'll begin to lose his pallor and tiredness and be a happy, sturdy youngster. Safe from the terrible danger of nervous exhaustlon, he'll grow up strong and healthy, able to make the utmost of his special gifts and capabilities.

Start your child on Horlicks tonight. Horlicks is obtainable at all

Several Clubs were not in favour of this and put forward amendments which were defeated. For the second half of the season, there will be a Combined League Cup competition, but with the important proviso that the League Committee, and not the Clubs, make out the fixtures.

The original intention had been for the Clubs to make their own

Scoring Basis

The Committee will decide on bases for the games, points, goal average or percentage. After ten games, the top 32 Clubs qualify for the Cap proper. Early games may delay County and local Cup competitions, and London Clubs are thinking that the new arrangement may prevent their own Cup competition from being played.

Nazis Were Buying Up Our Money

German soldiers were so certain last September that! they would invade and capture Britain that Nazi guards at prison camps were eager to exchange German marks for English money belonging to prisoners.

They wanted the English money to spend in Britain. This was revealed by 53-years-old Private Thomas Dunkley, of the Pioneer Corps, who has returned to his home at Southport, after being repatriated from a German prison camp in Occupied France owing to ill-health.

When France collapsed Private Dunkley and an officer dodged the Nazis for nine days until they were captured near the Swiss frontier.

They were taken to a camp where there were thousands of prisoners of all nationalities. Food and water were always short,

Lack Of Food Dunkley said: "The Germans made us work hard, but we could not keep it up because we did not get sufficient food. It was a hell of a job to exist."

Luck of food undermined his health, and he was bent to hospital. Then on November 6 he was told he could go home. After a spell in hospital at Lyons, he reached Mar-scilles with two other Englishmen. There he was interned until February 24, in a fortress occupied by the French Foreign Legion, despite' the fact that his papers were in far as her stores allow.

Mrs Mathew said that the work began as the result of an appeal to relatives of men who had died on active service. These have given uniforms and other equipment for the benefit of the men following on.

Men who serve on trawlers and minesweepers are probably the hardest hit by enemy action. Mrs Mathew has been able to re-equip hundreds of them, and among her most frequent visitors are officers of the Merchant Service, to whom she has been able to give not only clothing, but such things as fountain pens and watches.

America has contributed liberally to Mrs Mathew's store cupboards.

Ousting Westerners From China Openly Admitted As Japan's Aim

Open admission that Japan aims at the complete eradication of Western influence from China and the employment of the Chinese as servants of the Japanese conquerors in further moves directed toward southern Asia is contained in an article written for the Tokyo newspaper "Yomiuri" by Toshio Shiratori, adviser to the Foreign Office, reports the Tokyo correspondent of the "Christian Science Monitor."

"In the present China Affair, 1 Japan has not frankly stated guards treated the prisoners fairly her true mind to the world as well, but "put them through it" after yet," Mr Shiratori says. Pittsburgh, June 9 (UP) .- A new treatment for pneumonia, as efficacious as the "wonder drug" sulfapyridine, was reported recently by Dr E. R. Weidlein, director of the Mellon Institute.

The new treatment, using hydroxyethylapocupreine, dubbed "71" for daily use, has been used in clinical study in Pittsburgh for five years, Dr Weidlein revealed in his 28th annual report. for the market. Strike Broken

WASHINGTON, June D (Reuter). -The Secretary for War, Colonet Henry L. Stimson, has published a telegram from Lieut Col Branshaw: "Strike broken. Gates open. Employees streaming in. Conditions entistactory."

Good News

WASHINGTON, June D (Reuter) -President Roosevelt is "delighted" with Col Branshaw's news of the situation at the North American Aviation factory, said Mr Stephen Early, secretary.

Col. Branshaw reported that 2,000 members of the day shift or nearly half the shift, had resumed work. Col Branshaw expected that production would be practically normal by to-morrow.

Bayonets Fixed

LOS ANGELES, June 9 (Reuter).

Two marching columns have arrived to augment the convoy of 50 trucks which brought the first detachment of trolps to the factory.
Three thousand troops with bayonets fixed and carrying machineguns took over the factory.

The strikers and pickets gradually yielded but one who refused to move was bayonetted and taken to hospital.

President Roosevelt's order to the army stipulated that possession and operation are to be terminated by the President, as soon as he determines that the plant will be privately operated in a manner consistent with the needs of national defence."

Nazi Pressure on Russia to Allow Transit of Troops and Materials

Special to the "Telegraph"

ANKARA, June 9 (UP).—Best informed diplomatic sources stated to-day that a large-scale movement of German troops was in progress northwards from the south Balkans. They declared that the Germans were now concentrating huge forces in Moldavia for the purpose of applying pressure to Russia to allow German troops to cross by land and sea from Contanza to Baku, from where they would travel to Iran by train and truck, seizing British oll supplies, and invading Iraq thus outflanking Syria,

Diplomatic sources considered that it was certain the Germans would resume their pressure on Turkey to allow the passage of at least war materials to Syria, but it is not believed that the Nazis will push the issue as far as a conflict.

It is stated that British reconnaissance has ascertained the concentration of several hundred German planes at Rhodes, where a large number of troops is ready for air transport to Syria.

What a R.A.F. Pilot Really

As told to Captain FRANK SHAW

SUPPOSE I'm an average pilot, so my feelings in action may stand for the feelings of all my battling comrades.

In the first place, not much fear enters into a man's thoughts when he's hurling himself at four hundred miles an hour into what the scribes call The Jaws of Hell.

Your feelings are chained tight. You are one with your killer-machine.

Every extraneous thought is clean wiped from your

Your goal is a hundred miles: twenty minutes, or, with a following wind, even less than that; and for twenty minutes—a breath or a lifetime in an airman's existence -you have opportunity to test your armour; to try a few quick tricks, perhaps, to make sure the ship is as always as ready to your hand, eye and heart, as a blood horse about to start for the Derby.

WOUR ground-crew have the button and the answering spatter assures you of that. Everything is smooth as silk underyour hands.

You are subconsciously aware of n sense of unlimited power. You feel on a level with the gods-even superior to them, for you are modern and efficient; not overlaid with the dust and grime of futile oges.

You are a god! But you don't put that into words; the awareness simply flows through you with an odd, electric tingling that again communicates itself to your machine, giving it an "increased roar of power, a thickened vibration, an eagerness that is like the straining of hounds on a leash,

But you don't think-until afterwards the swift impressions registered on your brain are developed, like a sensitised plate.

IR-LIFE to-day is all anticipation and almost grudging retrospect. There is no present; because the present flows past, you at three hundred miles an hour, to become a blurred past before you appreciate its existence.

If you have listened to a broadcast describing enemy. savagery and atrocity, you probably start your patrol with a fury of hatred blazing inside you; an incoherent determination to square the deal with the murderous Hun.

You've heard of mutilated nurses shattered under the symbol of the once-sacred Red Cross; of old women butchered as they fled for the ditches of their wrecked villages. You've seen, with bleary, almost unregistering eyes, the severed limbs-yes, and heads-of children, littored ghastly among their tord toys.

You swear that by God's avenging grace, you will treat any entany you encounter in precisely that way; mangling him, showing no pity, no hint of mercy. But that is on the ground; these raging emotions are not your companions in the parted air.

All you are conscious of is a strained desire to see what the sky would spout upon you. No highfalutin' heroisms! It is a "job," to be done as efficiently and thoroughly as may be.

It is your work, for which you draw pay, for which painstaking specialists trained you through what seemed then to be tedious

 WOU fretted then at compara-. Live inaction; now you bless the thoughtful care that insisted on hard efficiency before entrusting you with a fighting job. And through the blur of uncon-

Hatred has fled; possibly-I've felt it—there is even a limp seen to details: your guns -sympathy with what you intend are serviced and ready; a touch on a shall be your victims-your bag, for the fact that you are wishful to slaughter fellow humans doesn't register in human terms. For all emotion to the contrary, these flickering glints around you might be partridges.

> The fight itself is a series of flashes: none definitely registered at the internent, all taking orderly shape as your trained brain clears to accept individual facts.

A mon is on your tail—and you spin around to give him the works. You manoeuvre without conscious volition, until you see him within 'range, your nose bearing fairly; you touch the button and give him the

You follow the steam of death, pouring in another. It is your enemy or you.

I have felt my heart thrusting like a hammer in my throat; but that was when in security. One impression does stand out curiously and clearly, though. It _was_the_other_day,_when_L_saw_a_ German bomber deliberately wreck n hospital ship.

The Red Cross was plainly evident to me, who was higher than the Heinkel. He could not shelp having seen it; but his downward dive had all the determined purpose of a man attacking a definitely hostile target.

He killed that sacred ship. He machine-gunned nurses and wounded men-some of them Germans—as they made for the boats.

He swooped and machinegunned people-women, too, in the olly water. He was worse than any mad dog-his destardly assassinations were wholesale.

I felt hate—like a fire. I felt I'd kill him if it meant flying fairly into him and bringing him down in a blind grapple. -

I sat on him, cut him in two. He dived in a spiral; and as he dived I gave him another burst to make surc.

Then the Heinkel hit the sea and disapeared, in a scum of oil and debris-a horrible broth of death

A perfectly processed muchine would feel that way if it could think. It has a function to perform: clean, precise, inevitable. That is the emotion underrunning all a fighting hirman's thoughts.

There is no such thing as donth -the only conscious feeling you have on that subject is that you. might not be ashamed to face good commides in the mext - unknown.

WARRIOR WOMEN

PUBLIC sentiment will warmly welcome the generous tribute which Mr Winant, the United States Ambassador, pald recently to the part which the women of Britain are playing in the national war effort. What has impressed him, he testifies, as much as anything since he arrived in England, is that this is a woman's war more than any Not only are women engaged in need. all the active services and in all the industries, but they are, by their indomitable spirit, their uncomplaining fortitude, and their unsparing acceptance of grievous burdens, aiding incalculably to maintain the national morale at the sticking place. Mr Winaut has seen the bombed areas, and noted how the mothers and home makers there have faced unmerciful disaster, and shown, not less than their men in the fighting Services, the staying-power of their race.

Women are being confronted with dangers and sacrifices. which have never before presented themselves in the same form and in the same degree; and they have risen nobly to the height of the grim emergency. If they had flinched or failed, no valour, however shining, could have availed to hold the front: 'As the struggle goes on more and more is demanded of the country's women-kind; and whatever is demanded is being given. Mr. Winant bids he was directly addressing, to make it their duty to interpret to the women of America the place in the war that is held by the women of Britain. No better service could be rendered or more richly deserved .- L.D.T.

LONDON, June 9 (Reuter). -Heavy hombers of the R.A.F. carried out prolonged raids on Benghazi and Derna on Sunday night, states a communique from the R.A.F. Middle East headquarters.

These were followed at dawn by machinegun attacks on dispersed aircraft at Derna and Gazala, and on camp and motor transport concentrations near Martuba.

Considerable Damage Considerable damage was caused to the airfields, six enemy aircraft being burned out at Gazala and further eight being completely destroyed at Derna. Many other enemy aircraft were badly damaged. Fires and explosions were caused at Benghazi as a result of the bombing raid, while at Derna several direct hits by high explosive bombs started large fires which were followed by explosions. Two of our pircraft have so far failed to return to their base.

Mindanao Moundsman's Masterful Hurling SAPPERS SURPRISE S. CHINA

By Ball Fan

Marking up another milestone in the annals of local baseball opening day "gala affairs," the Hongkong seven team major ball loop inaugurated their new Chatham Road ball park Saturday afternoon as Governor Northcote threw out the first ball to start the season winging on its way, before a sell-out crowd of rabid ball fans.

In a perfect setting of real baseball weather, Mindanao's terrific M, gunning for their second straight pennant, started on the upward road to Flagville with a sensational 7-6 "Merriwell" win over H.B.'s powerful beermakers.

MANAGER Bill Woods' Asheville southerners opened up the two game Sabbath programme with their initial triumph of the season, setting the marauding Mohawks down with a 6-4 count. It was the Tennesseemen's first victory since their appearance on a local ball diamond this year.

Royal Engineers started the campaign in big time fashion, taking a 9-5 surprise win from South China's weak-willowed red and blue men.

REHIND the masterful hurling of Ski Powlawski, and the terrific clouting of Tony Muscavage and the fleet-footed Willie Wilson, the Colony champions looked every inch the ball team that will, once again, be in there at the final stretch bid.

Going into the final stanza on the short end of a 6-5 score, after six forring innings which lind the fans fluuring out that "one-up, one-down" lig-saw, the defending champions broke out with a vengeance as whip-1531 Willie Wilson opened the inning with a clean single to centrefield, tearing into second on his fourth steal of the day, George Sousa's bad error off Ski Powlawski's infield hit. The terrific M dished in with rare mid-season form, with the rookies bearing down in starry debut style behind the steadying influence of last Year's veterans.

Highlight of the seven run Mindanno attack was Tony Muscavage's hustling homer in the 5th stanza which carried in Crooner Ruel who had made first on a fielder's choice. Nazis Were Buying Up Our Money

German soldiers were so certain last September that would invade and capture. Bri tain that Nazi guards at prison camps were eager to exchange German marks for English money belonging to prisoners.

They wanted the English money to spend in Britain. This was revealed by 53-

years-old Private Thomas Dunkley, of the Pioneer Corps, who has returned to his home at Southport, after being repatriated from a German prison camp in Occupied France owing to ill-health.

When France collapsed Private Dunkley and an officer dodged the Nuzis for nine days until they were captured near the Swiss frontier.

They were taken to a camp where there were thousands of prisoners of all nationalities. Food and water were always short.

Lack Of Food Dunkley said: "The Germans made us work hard, but we could not keep it up because we did not get sufficient food. It was a hell of a job to exist."

Lack of food undermined his health, and he was sent to hospital. Then on November 6 he was told he could go home. After a spell in hospital at Lyons, he reached Mar-seilles with two other Englishmen. There he was interned until February 24, in a fortress occupied by the French Foreign Legion, despite the fact that his papers were in

Christmas Treat

"At Christmas British subjects stil in Marseilles gave us a grand dinner of turkey and Christmas puddingthe first square meal we had had in six months," Dunkley said.

He added that German prison guards treated the prisoners fairly her true mind to the world as well, but "put them through it" after yet," Mr Shiratori says. "Had returning from leave and viewing she declared at the outset that the damage done in their home towns by the R.A.F.

Ship-Wrecked-Men's Friend In London

When scafaring officers found themselves, after Dunkirk, stranded without kit, the wife of a Lt.-General in the Royal Marines, Mrs George Mathew, set to work to help them. Her single-handed effort has developed into a full-time job, and men who have been torpedoed and have iost everything can go to her flat at resources. China may be lacking far as her stores allow.

Mrs Mathew said that the work began as the result of an appeal to relatives of men who had died on active service. These have given uniforms and other equipment for the benefit of the men following on.

Men who serve on trawlers and minesweepers are probably the hardest hit by enemy netion, Mrs Mathew has been able to re-equip hundreds of them, and among her most frequent visitors are officers of the Merchant Service, to whom she has been able to give not only clothing, but such things as fountain pens and watches.

America has contributed liberally to Mrs Mathew's store supports.

Justing Westerners From China Openly Admitted As Japan's Aim

Open admission that Japan aims at the complete eradication of Western influence from China and the employment of the Chinese as servants of the Japanese conquerors in further moves directed toward southern Asia is contained in an article written for the Tokyo newspaper "Yomiuri" by Toshio Shiratori, adviser to the Foreign Office, reports the Tokyo correspondent of the "Christian Science Monitor."

"In the present China Affair, Japan has not frankly stated she declared at the outset that Japan's object was to save China from the encroachment of the Whites . . . it would have produced good results. "Jaban's -- programme -- has -- been extended in scope. The original East converted into the Greater East Asian new order while the Japan-Manchukuo-China bloc has become enlarged into the Greater East Asian Common Prosperity Sphere within which lies the extensive area

Southeast Asia. "The main objective has changed; from the emancipation of China into the emancipation of Asia; the aim, now, is to restore Asia to the Asiatles. As a matter of fact, Japan, with her poor natural resources, the report said, "there was could not be indifferent to China's '55, Park-lane, W.1, and be refitted as material supplies but she is blessed tality in the treatment with mon cold. with ample human resources.

"Absolute Necessity" "Although for diplomatic reasons she (Japan) could not say so," Mr. Shiratori goes on, "her object has been to drive the improper influences and intrigues of the White races out of China. From the point of view of Japan whose mind is set on Southward development the emancipation of China is a matter of absolute necessity."

Mr Shiratori is one of the leading anti-Democratic voices in Japan and one of the most outspoken foes America and Great Britain. He is a former Ambassador to Italy and an ardent supporter of the Axis Pact.

During the spring and summer of 1939 when he was in Rome he and Ambassador Oshima in Berlin did everything in their power to secure Japan's adherence to a Tri-Power military allance with Germany and Italy. It was freely reported, in fact, sl,000,000 or more—dropped from 50 authority given him in making commitments tying Japan to the dictator

.Cabinet Wavered 🔓

Mr Shiratori and General Oshima were so insistent in urging · Japan's adhesion to the agreement in which they had the full support of the Japanese Army that the Cabinet wavered several times.,

'Admiral Mitsumasa' Yonni, then Naval Minister and later Premier, stood firm against any such agreement, however, and refused to consider the possibility of the Japanese Fleet becoming a weapon of the Berlin-Rome Axis. Following the signature of wor the Japanese Cabinet resigned were promptly recalled. Gen. Oshlma Foreign Office.

Nazi Pressure on Russia to Allow Transit of Troops and Materials

FOUNDED 1881 No. 16482

Special to the "Telegraph"

ANKARA, June 9 (UP) .- Best informed diplomatic sources stated to-day that a large-scale movement of German troops was in progress northwards from the south Balkans. They declared that the Germans were now concentrating huge forces in Moldavia for the purpose of applying pressure to Russia to allow German troops to cross by land and sea from Contanza to Baku, from where they would travel to Iran by train and truck, seizing British oil supplies, and invading Iraq thus outflanking Syria.

Diplomatic sources considered that it was certain the Germans would resume their pressure on Turkey to allow the passage of at least war materials to Syria, but it is not believed that the Nazis will push the issue as far as a conflict.

It is stated that British reconnaissance has ascertained the concentration of several hundred German planes at Rhodes, where a large number of troops is ready for air transport to Syria.

Tense Pacific Situation: Support for N.E.I.

By OTTO JANSSEN Special to the "Telegraph"

WASHINGTON, June 9 (UP) .- Informed quarters to-day believed that the outcome of the current trade negotiations between Japan and the Dutch East Indies may result in a "showdown" of relations between Japan on the one hand and the United States and Britain on the other. There appeared to be but little doubt that officials in the Indies are acting in close co-operation with London and Washington, and that Batavia's refusal to accede to all the Japanese demands was strongly influenced by the democratic capitals,

Molotov May Visit Japan

Newspaper's Report

TOKYO, June 10 (Reuter). Despite the absence of official Soviet confirmation, the Nazl organ, "Hochi," to-day said that M. Molotov's rumoured visit to Japan this summer is "quite likely," adding that such a visit would go far in clearing 'up' outstanding Japanese-Soviet problems and in cementing friendly relations.

CAIRO, JUNE 9 (UP).-THERE IS GROW-ING EVIDENCE THAT RESISTANCE IN SYRIA TO THE ALLIED PENETRATION WILL NOT LAST VERY LONG AND THAT ALREADY THOUSANDS OF FRENCHMEN HAVE DEFECT-ED FROM GENERAL DENTZ'S ARMY.

Jerusalem Radio announced that the Allied advance in Syria is five-pronged. Some opposition has been met, but great numbers are joining the Allied forces. Near Ras Nakoura, some Frenchmen blew up the route. Many villages and towns have been occupied and the villagers have warmly welcomed the Allied troops.

London, quoting Radio Brazzaville, reported that 4,000 French joined the de Gaullists yesterday, and that resistance is weakening. It would seem, stated the radio report, that the campaign will not last long.

Special to the "Telegraph"

ISTANBUL, June 9 (UP).—With the news that the Syrian frontier had been crossed by Allied troops, the Turkish Fleet has started to take up advantageous positions, and carrying out very alert patrolling from the Bosphorus to the Dardanelles. Increased tension here in diplomatic quarters is very noticeable. Apparently the authorities are awaiting expected German thrusts.

French military analysts at to-night's press conference, admitted the British advance and blamed French inferiority in manpower and especially in mechanical material.

Further British attempts to put several thousand machinegun troops ashore along the Mediterranean coast to cut off the French troops on the south from their Beirut base were said, by the French, to have been defeated, when French planes and submurines broke up a big formation | Lisbon. of cruisers and destroyers off Tyre and Sanda. WARRIOR WOMEN

PUBLIC sentiment will warmly welcome the generous tribute which Mr Winant, the United States Ambassador, paid recentiy to the part which the women of Britain are playing in the national war effort. What has impressed him, he testifies, as much as anything since he arrived in England, is that this is a woman's war more than any other in history. It is true. Not only are women engaged in need. all the active services and in all the industries, but they are, by -their-indomitable--spirit, -their uncomplaining fortitude, and their unsparing acceptance of grievous burdens, aiding incalculably to maintain the national morale at the sticking place. Mr Winant has seen the bombed areas, and noted how the mothers and home makers there have faced unmerciful disaster, and shown, not less than their men in the fighting Services, the staying-power of their race. Women are being confronted with dangers and sacrifices which have never before presented themselves in the same form and in the same degree; and they have risen nobly the height of the grim emergency. If they had flinched or failed, no valour, however shining, could have availed to hold the front. As the struggle goes on more and more is demanded of the country's women-kind; and whatever is demanded is being given. Mr. Winant blds his own country-women, whom he was directly addressing, better service could be rendered or more richly deserved .- L.D.T.

Here is a picture taken after a raid on London which has been published in the press of the world, has been seen by millions and which inspired Ben Hecht, famed "PM" columnist to pen a glowing tribute to the superb courage of Britain's war-scarred civilians. It is sixyear-old Anita Avery, who despite the ruins which lay around her, can still smile happily and bravely as she hugs her pet dog Raffles who was buried for hours beneath debris before being rescued by Anita's father. . The steadfast courage shining from Anita's face typifies the spirit of England to-day as she faces the greatest trial of her history.

Mindanao Moundsman's Masterful Hurling SAPPERS SURPRISE S. CHINA

By Ball Fan

Marking up another milestone in the annals of local baseball opening day "gala affairs," the Hongkong seven team major ball loop inaugurated their new Chatham Road ball park Saturday afternoon as Governor Northcote threw out the first ball to start the season winging on its way, before a sell-out crowd of rabid ball fans.

In a perfect setting of real baseball weather, Mindanao's terrific M, gunning for their second straight pennant, started on the upward road to Flagville with a sensational 7-6 "Merriwell" win over H.B.'s powerful beermakers.

Royal Engineers started the campaign in big time fashion, taking a 9-5 surprise win from South China's weak-willowed red and blue men.

DEHIND the masterful hurling of Ski Powlawski, and the terrific clouting of Tony Muscavage and the fleet-footed Willie Wilson, the Colony champions looked every inch the ball team that will, once again, be in there at the final stretch bid.

Going into the final stanza on the short end of a 6-5 score, after six roaring innings which had the fens figuring out that "one-up, one-down" lig-saw, the defending champions broke out with a vengeance as whippet Willie Wilson opened the inning with a clean single to centrefield, tearing into second on his fourth steal of the day. Ousting Westerners From China Openly Admitted As Japan's Aim

Open admission that Japan aims at the complete eradication of Western influence from China and the employment of the Chinese as servants of the Japanese conquerors in further moves directed toward southern Asia is contained in an article written for the Tokyo newspaper "Yomiuri" by Toshio Shiratori, adviser to the Foreign Office, reports the Tokyo correspondent of the "Christian Science Monitor."

"In the present China Affair, | Japan has not frankly stated her-true mind to the world as yet," Mr Shiratori says. "Had she declared at the outset that Japan's object was to save Luk Hon-kwong, 30, master of the China from the encroachment Yuen Lee Firewood Shop, of Lot No. of the Whites . . . it would have produced good results. . $100 or one month's hard labour by

"Japan's programme has been extended in scope. The original East Asian new order has become converted into the Greater East Asian new order while the Japan-Manchukuo-China bloc has become enlarged into the Greater East Asian Common Prosperity Sphere within which lies the extensive, area of Southeast Asia. "The main objective has changed from the emancipation of China into the emancipation of Asia; the alm, now, is to restore Asia to the Asiatles. As a matter of fact, Japan, with her poor natural resources, could not be indifferent to China's with ample human resources.

"Absolute Necessity"

"Although for diplomatic reasons she (Japan) could not say so," Mr. Shiratori goes on, "her object has been to drive the improper influences and intrigues of the White races out of China. From the point of view of Japan whose mind is set on Southward development the emancipation of China is a matter of absolute necessity."

Mr Shiratori is one of the leading anti-Democratic voices in Japan and one of the most outspoken focs of America and Great Britain. He is a former Ambassador to Italy and an ardent supporter of the Axis Pact. During the spring and summer of 1939 when he was in Rome he and Ambassador Oshima in Berlin did on the" southern. PNEUMONIA

Pittsburgh, June 9 (UP) .- A new treatment for pneumonia, as efficacious as the "wonder drug" sulfapyridine, was reported recently by Dr E. R. Weidlein, director of the Mellon Institute.

The new treatment, using hydroxyethylapocupreine, dubbed "71" for daily use, has been used in clinical study in Pittsburgh and otherwise preparing the pelts for five years, Dr. Weidlein revealed in his 28th annual report, for the market. During that period, Dr Weidlein said, its effects have been as favourable as treatment with sulfapyridine.

"In a series of cases of pneumonia treated during 1935-40." the report said, "there was resources. China may be lacking in found practically an equal mormaterial supplies but she is blessed tality in the treatment with mon cold: hydroxyethylapocupreine and with sulfapyridine.

> "The results of treatment of 404 pneumonia cases by hydroxyethyinpocupreine in the period have shown a marked lowering of the total mortality and of the mortality in both the bacteremic and the nonbacteremic cases."

to Belrut. It is admitted that the coast advance has reached the River Litani. north of Tyre.

After referring to French resistance "against the British and de Gaullist forces," the agency adds: "The British forces are however, markedly superior, especially in armoured equipment. The difficulties of defending the territories of the Levant for an army which has only weak forces at its disposal are pointed out in Vichy."

The agency continues: "Supplying this army not only with arms and ammunitions but with food and fuel is practically impossible." Litani Crossed Litani, which might have been a serious obstacle. Very few details are yet available here on the political aspect as to the French reaction, but it seems evident that resistance must have been slight The advance from Dera through the difficult Jebel Druse country is also progressing entisfactorily. This area is mostly composed in the southeast of lava beds and transport must needs keep to the tracks. But the Jebel Druses have memories of ruthless repression and are believed to be pro-British, The roads through Dera and Quinotra, both 40 to 50 miles from Damascus, converge on that city-the most important centre in Syria. Sheikh-Miskine is half way be-Belrut and the Litani River is some ten miles to the north.
